

Let's Annotate!
As you Read the passage:

To prevent from highlighting everything let's look for key ideas

A.S. Write your initials each time you have completed a task on your cover sheet.

1. ____ Number the paragraphs
2. ____ Chunk the text
3. ____ Draw a box around the words that are repeated throughout the text (exclude a, and, the)
4. ____ Circle words that show emotion or how a character or characters were feeling
5. ____ Imagery- Underline words that helps you see a vivid picture in your mind of the event or action
6. ____ Underline unfamiliar words and define the word using the dictionary and context clues
7. ____ Write the THEME of the story at the end of your reading at the bottom of your paper
8. ____ Highlight the characters in the story, Circle the main character and label as main character
9. ____ Answer all the vocabulary, summary, and questions in the margin of the text. Follow the instructions carefully for each section!
10. ____ Write the conflict of the story on the first page of the story. Example: (character vs. character, character vs. self ____, character vs. nature, or character vs. society)

SET A PURPOSE FOR READING

Read "The Jacket" to discover how an article of clothing shaped Gary Soto's perception of himself.

The Jacket

Personal Narrative by
GARY SOTO

BACKGROUND To create lively, poetic images in his writing, Gary Soto often draws upon childhood memories of growing up in a Mexican-American community in Fresno, California. "The Jacket" is a personal narrative about this time in Soto's life.

My clothes have failed me. I remember the green coat that I wore in fifth and sixth grades when you either danced like a champ or pressed yourself against a greasy wall, bitter as a penny toward the happy couples.

When I needed a new jacket and my mother asked what kind I wanted, I described something like bikers wear: black leather and silver studs¹ with enough belts to hold down a small town. We were in the kitchen, steam on the windows from her cooking. She listened so long while stirring dinner that I thought she understood for sure the kind I wanted. The next day when I got home from school, I discovered draped on my bedpost a jacket the color of day-old guacamole.² I threw my books on the bed and approached the jacket slowly, as if it were a stranger whose hand I had to shake. I touched the vinyl sleeve, the collar, and peeked at the mustard-colored lining. ❸

1. studs: small ornamental metal buttons mounted on fabric.

From the kitchen mother yelled that my jacket was in the closet. I closed the door to her voice and pulled at the rack of clothes in the closet, hoping the jacket on the bedpost wasn't for me but my mean brother. No luck. I gave up. From my bed, I stared at the jacket. I wanted to cry because it was so ugly and so big that I knew I'd have to wear it a long time. I was a small kid, thin as a young tree, and it would be years before I'd have a new one. I stared at the jacket, like an enemy, thinking bad things before I took off my old jacket whose sleeves climbed halfway to my elbow. ❹

I put the big jacket on. I zipped it up and down several times, and rolled the cuffs up so they didn't cover my hands. I put my hands in the pockets and flapped the jacket like a bird's wings. I stood in front of the mirror, full face, then profile, and then looked over my shoulder as if someone had called me. I sat on the bed, stood against the bed, and combed my hair to see what I would look like doing something natural. I looked ugly. I threw it on my brother's bed and looked at it for a long time before I slipped it on and went out to the backyard, smiling a "thank you" to my mom as I passed her in the kitchen. 40 With my hands in my pockets I kicked a ball against the fence, and then climbed it to sit looking into the alley. I hurled orange peels at the mouth of an open garbage can and when the peels were gone I watched the white puffs of my breath thin to nothing.

❶ SUMMARIZE

When you summarize, you note the most important events and ideas. Reread lines 6–14. Complete the log entry about getting the jacket.

Key Events
•
•

❷ SIMILES AND METAPHORS

Underline two similes Soto uses in lines 24–26. What do these comparisons tell you about how he feels about the jacket?

profile (prō'fil') n. a side view of an object, especially of the human head

2. guacamole (gwā'kə-mō'lō): a thick paste made from avocados, citrus juice, onions, and seasoning, often served as a dip.

Ⓒ SUMMARIZE

Reread lines 56–65. How do other people treat the narrator now that he is wearing the jacket? Record key events in the log.

Key Events
•

I jumped down, hands in my pockets, and in the backyard on my knees I teased my dog, Brownie, by swooping my arms while making bird calls. He jumped at me and missed. He jumped again and again, until a tooth sunk deep, ripping an L-shaped tear on my left sleeve. I pushed Brownie away to study the tear as I would a cut on my arm. There was no blood, only a few loose pieces of fuzz. Dumb dog, I thought, and pushed him away hard when he tried to bite again. I got up from my knees and went to my bedroom to sit with my jacket on my lap, with the lights out.

That was the first afternoon with my new jacket. The next day I wore it to sixth grade and got a D on a math quiz. During the morning recess Frankie T., the playground terrorist, pushed me to the ground and told me to stay there until recess was over. My best friend, Steve Negrete, ate an apple while looking at me, and the girls turned away to whisper on the monkey bars.³ The teachers were no help: they looked my way and talked about how foolish I looked in my new jacket. I saw their heads bob with laughter, their hands half-covering their mouths. Ⓒ

Even though it was cold, I took off the jacket during lunch and played kickball in a thin shirt, my arms feeling like braille⁴ from goose bumps. But when I returned to class I slipped the jacket on and shivered until I was warm. I sat on my hands, heating them up, while my teeth chattered like a cup of crooked dice. Finally warm, I slid out of the jacket but a few minutes later put it back on when the fire bell rang. We paraded out into the yard where we, the sixth graders, walked past all the other grades to stand against the back fence. Everybody saw me. Although they didn't say out loud, "Man, that's ugly,"

3. monkey bars: a structure of poles and bars for climbing, often found in playgrounds.

4. braille (brāl): a system of writing or printing for blind people, made up of arrangements of raised dots representing letters and numbers.

I heard the buzz-buzz of gossip and even laughter that I knew was meant for me.

And so I went, in my guacamole-colored jacket. So 80 embarrassed, so hurt, I couldn't even do my homework. I received Cs on quizzes, and forgot the state capitals and the rivers of South America, our friendly neighbor. Even the girls who had been friendly blew away like loose flowers to follow the boys in neat jackets. ②

I wore that thing for three years until the sleeves grew short and my forearms stuck out like the necks of turtles. All during that time no love came to me—no little dark girl in a Sunday dress she wore on Monday. At lunchtime I stayed with the ugly boys who leaned against the 90 chainlink fence and looked around with propellers of grass spinning in our mouths. We saw girls walk by alone, saw couples, hand in hand, their heads like bookends pressing air together. We saw them and spun our propellers so fast our faces were blurs. ③

I blame that jacket for those bad years. I blame my mother for her bad taste and her cheap ways. It was a sad time for the heart. With a friend I spent my sixth-grade year in a tree in the alley, waiting for something good to happen to me in that jacket, which had become the ugly
100 brother who tagged along wherever I went. And it was about that time that I began to grow. My chest puffed up with muscle and, strangely, a few more ribs. Even my hands, those fleshy hammers, showed bravely through the cuffs, the fingers already hardening for the coming fights. But that L-shaped rip on the left sleeve got bigger, bits of stuffing coughed out from its wound after a hard day of play. I finally Scotch-taped it closed, but in rain or cold

② SIMILES AND METAPHORS

Underline the simile Soto uses in lines 79–84. How does this simile help you understand Soto's frustration?

propeller (prə-pēl'ər) n. a spinning blade used to move a boat or airplane forward propel v.

③ SUMMARIZE

Reread lines 85–94. What does the narrator blame the jacket for? Use your log to summarize the key events that contributed to his feelings about the jacket.

Key Events

Monitor Your Comprehension

shriveled (shrĭ'vəl) v. to shrink or wrinkle vicious (vĭsh'əs) adj. severe or fierce

SUMMARIZE

Reread lines 119–124. Record a key event in the log to tell how long Soto wore the jacket. Then note an important idea about how Soto feels the jacket shaped his life during that time.

Key Events

•
•

PAUSE & REFLECT

Underline the metaphor Soto uses in lines 132–134. What final thought does the metaphor help Soto convey?

weather the tape peeled off like a scab and more stuffing fell out until that sleeve shriveled into a palsied arm.⁵ That winter the elbows began to crack and whole chunks of green began to fall off. I showed the cracks to my mother, who always seemed to be at the stove with steamed-up glasses; and she said that there were children in Mexico who would love that jacket. I told her that this was America and yelled that Debbie, my sister, didn't have a jacket like mine. I ran outside, ready to cry, and climbed the tree by the alley to think bad thoughts and watch my breath puff white and disappear.

But whole pieces still casually flew off my jacket when I played hard, read quietly, or took vicious spelling tests at school. When it became so spotted that my brother began to call me "camouflage," I flung it over the fence into the alley. Later, however, I swiped the jacket off the ground and went inside to drape it across my lap and mope. ●

I was called to dinner: steam silvered my mother's glasses as she said grace;⁶ my brother and sister with their heads bowed made ugly faces at their glasses of powdered milk. I gagged too, but eagerly ate big rips of buttered tortilla that held scooped-up beans. Finished, I went outside with my jacket across my arm. It was a cold sky. The faces of clouds were piled up, hurting. I climbed the fence, jumping down with a grunt. I started up the alley and soon slipped into my jacket, that green ugly brother who breathed over my shoulder that day and ever since. ●

PAUSE & REFLECT

5. palsied (pəl'zēd) arm: a paralyzed or weakened arm.

6. grace: a short prayer or blessing said before or after a meal.

After Reading

Literary Analysis: Similes and Metaphors

Recall that metaphors and similes are literary devices that use comparisons to help readers see things in a new way. A simile uses the words like or as. Use the chart below to gather similes and metaphors that Soto uses in "The Jacket."

READING 7 Identify the literary language and devices used in personal narratives.

Simile/Metaphor	Basic Description	Positive or Negative
"I stared at the jacket, like an enemy."	He stared meanly or cautiously at it.	negative

Review the similes and metaphors that Soto uses in "The Jacket." What overall tone, or attitude toward the jacket, do these comparisons convey? What else do they contribute to the essay?

After Reading

READING 10A Summarize the main ideas and supporting details in text, demonstrating an understanding that a summary does not include opinions.
RC-6(F) Summarize texts in ways that maintain meaning and logical order within a text.

Reading Strategy: Summarize

Use your notes about key events in "The Jacket" to write a summary of the selection. Remember that a summary is a brief retelling of a text's main ideas and that it should not include opinions, or personal views. Make sure you maintain the same order and meaning as the original text.

What builds CONFIDENCE?

Reread lines 56–65, and review your notes from page 192. Do you think that the jacket was entirely responsible for damaging Soto's self-confidence? Explain.

Vocabulary Practice

Complete each sentence with the vocabulary word that best completes it.

profile

propeller

shrivel

vicious

1. The airplane made an emergency landing when its _____ broke.
2. It was sad to see my favorite sweater _____ and shrink with each wash.
3. I know he was upset, but he didn't need to be so _____.
4. Many portraits show only the person's _____, not the whole face.